WESTERN FILM ON BOARDS AT THE CALIFORNIA

The popularity which was evidenced during the recent revivals of western pictures was the important factor which prompted the Charles R. Rogers company to make "The Red Raiders," the attraction starring Ken Maynard coming to the California Theatre for two days, starting today.

Not since pioneer movie days, with all the crudities of production, has there been attempted stories which depict the historical days of the early settlers in the United States, according to Mr. Rogers. There have been "Covered Wagons," "Thundering Herds," "The Last Frontiers," and various ones exploiting the early settlement of the west, but scarcely one outstanding one which dwelt entirely upon the white invasion of the Indian territory.

"The Red Raiders," is set before the Civil War, when the government was striving to offer protection to the pioneers settling in the lands populated only by the redmen. The action is centered about the first military post erected in the vicinity where Custer and his gallant band were wiped out.

Supporting Maynard in the cast are Ann Drew, Paul Hurst, J. P. McGowan, Chief Yowlache, Harry Shuman, Tom Bay, and Hal Salter.

Other features on the same program include "Bigger and Better Blondes," a Charley Chase comedy; "Pathe Review"; "Current News Events"; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

"THE CRYSTAL CUP" FEATURED AT RICHMOND

What she regards as the most unusual characterization of her entire screen career is portrayed by Dorothy Mackaill in "The Crystal Cup," the First National Picture now playing at the Richmond Theatre.

Her character is that of a girl who detests men and to rid herself as masculine as possible in dress and mannerism.

Her final awakening to the natural reaction of her sex provides a highly unusual and dramatic plot.

"The Crystal Cup" was produced for First National Pictures by Henry Hobart and features Jack Mulhall in the lead opposite Miss Mackaill.

Gerald C. Duffy adapted the novel to the screen and John Francis Dillon directed.

Other film features on the same program include Charlie Chaplin in one of his greatest comedies entitled "Easy Street"; and the seventh thrilling chapter of "The Crimson Flash," featuring Cullen Landis.

THE JAZZ SINGER

NOVELIZED BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

THE JAZZ SINGER, starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samsen Raphaelson.

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Cantor Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jackie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the Synagogue. On the Eve of the Day of Atonement he finds Jackie singing ragtime in a "beer garden." He whips the child and Jackie runs away. Ten years elapse. Jackie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, meets Mary Dale, a dancer, who obtains a part for him in her vaudeville act. Mary returns to New York to star in a musical comedy and urges Lee, the producer, to send for Jack. Jack returns as home. His father hears him playing jazz and orders him out. Jack goes to the theatre to rehearse.

"Robin! Where is Robin? That's your cue," Lee was calling.

Jack jumped up hurriedly and came forward, leaning over his script.

"Gus, where've you been? There, that's it," the stage manager was helping him find the place, and Jack began running over his lines and listening to Lee's directions as to his positions. But all the time he was waiting for Mary to say that she would go to dinner with him.

Mary was trying to do a little quick thinking. And for that reason she had delayed purposely in coming.

"I'm sorry," she said, "I was waiting for you. I'll be right back."

"My dear child, you can't tell an 'angel' that. Every person who ever puts ten cents in a show thinks he has a perfect right to direct the entire production, whether he's ever been any near the stage than the last row in the balcony. After all, don't let me worry you. You'll probably be all right. I've beat off so many backers before that one more or less won't phase me. Run along and attend to your costume."

Mary "ran along" as far as the other side of the stage, but there she found Jack assiduously studying lines and she sat down beside him for a few moments.

"Say, this is a pip of a song, Mary," Jack explained. "Look! He hummed over the words, beating time with his fingers. 'Don't let me see that's not going to catch on.'"

"Let me see. Oh, is that the new one Harry was getting ready for you? That is good."

"They sat there side by side going over the tune until they were interrupted by Lee and a brisk, vibrating young man who oozed exuberance from every pore."

"Mary, you know Mr. Forbes? Jack, this is Franklin Forbes, our publicity man," Jack Robin, Lee introduced. "Go ahead, Mr. Forbes, and see what you can get. Forbes wants to get some kind of a stunt story on you, Jack."

"First off, I want you to tell me the story of your life—where you were born and how and why. Forbes pulled a stubby pencil from the inner depths of his coat and searched about for a piece of paper. 'And what you've played in before and all that sort of thing.'"

Jack looked at Forbes a little hesitatingly and at Mary a little uncertainly. His mind responded to the questions quickly enough, but he caught himself before he answered. Suppose he told Mary his background, his history? Would it make any difference to her? He knew something of her life and her family, and the contrast his own would make might prove to be distasteful to a girl whose status in society was so far removed, in its way, from his own.

"Oh, say that I was born of poor but honest parents and my life has been one long struggle for success, and I've played every kind of comedy known to man, but my one desire is to be a tragedian and do 'Hamlet.' In his anxiety to cover his hesitancy to answer Jack was playing the flippancy-wise-cracker."

"Listen, Jack, Forbes wants to get this story out. Come on and give him the facts," Lee broke in impatiently.

"Why not write something about Jack's method of putting over a 'jazz song'?" Mary suggested helpfully. "Something about how he feels when he's singing? You know, he has a sort of religious intensity, Harry, when he sings."

"Sure, that's good," Forbes heartily commended the idea. "But I want to get some kind of a background to hang a story on—something that's just as long as it has some color. I'll make up the rest. You won't have to bother."

"All right, you go ahead, then, and make up anything you want," Jack drew a sigh of relief as he thought himself well away from these forced revelations. "Anything you say will be O. K. with me. I won't call you a liar after it comes out in the papers."

SCOUT COUNCIL PLANS SIERRA SUMMER CAMP

MARTINEZ, Feb. 23.—Announcement that the Contra Costa Boy Scout Council will conduct a mountain camp this year in addition to the Scout Camp in Mitchell Canyon, at the foot of Mt. Diablo, was made today by J. R. Warner, Contra Costa Scout Executive following a session of the council here.

The Contra Costa Scout board will cooperate with the San Joaquin County Board, which will make its camp site on the Stanislaus River, near Big Meadows and about 15 miles above the Calaveras big trees, available to Contra Costa boys. Only first class scouts with camping experience will be eligible to enter the mountain camp.

Camp dates have not been fixed but Camp Diablo will open, as usual, early in the season and the mountain period will come late in the summer.

The committee on the Younger Boy Program advised this council that no definite action be taken on club work until after this council camp. National headquarters is working on a program that will not be available for two years but it is possible that this council will not attempt any program until this is available.

The Board will send the Executive to the National Training School which will probably be held at Camp Diamond in Oakland and March 24 to April 22.

The National Council B. S. A. meets in San Francisco April 9th to 11th. This is the first time the National Council has met west of Chicago. Council President T. B. Swift will represent Contra Costa.

HOUSE FAVORS CARRIERS AND 15 CRUISERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Construction of 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier during the next six years at a cost of $274,000,000, is provided for in a Navy shipbuilding bill agreed upon by the House Naval Affairs Committee today.

Thus the Naval Affairs Committee slashed the 75-ship program to cost $740,000,000, which Secretary Wilbur, backed by President Coolidge, had recommended as necessary to give the United States an adequate navy.

The cruisers are to be of 10,000 tons each. Five are to be laid down in each of the next three years. They are all to be completed within six years, making 150,000 tons of cruisers to be built. Some of the cruisers will replace obsolete vessels now in the fleet.

The aircraft carrier is to be of 13,800 tons and to be started within two years. It is estimated the carrier will cost $19,000,000, whereas the cruisers each will cost $17,000,000.

Full power is vested in the President to call off any part of all of the building program in the event of an international agreement to limit armaments.

Directions are also given in the bill to the secretary of the navy to prepare plans for construction of two salvage ships for the navy, capable of assisting rescue work on any naval ship that may have an accident.

This report would be made to the Naval Affairs Committee, which would consider the feasibility of recommending legislation to build salvage ships suggested by the naval secretary.

Wilbur's recommendation that 35 submarines be built was rejected, a majority of the committee taking the view that the United States is well supplied with submarines, being equal at least to any other nation in that type of warship.

Criticism of the submarine as a war weapon, following the sinking of the S-4 and S-51, as well as the move made by Secretary of State Kellogg for an international agreement to abolish submarines, was believed to have been an influencing factor in the committee's decision.

The committee also turned down Wilbur's plea for 9 destroyer leaders, it was pointed out that 12 destroyers authorized under the 1916 building program have not yet been appropriated for, and thus it is unnecessary for the committee to authorize any more.

Secretary Wilbur's program called for all ships to be laid down in five years and to be completed in eight, in view of the fact that all nations signatory to the Washington Arms Treaty are scheduled under that treaty to meet again in Washington in 1931 to consider naval limitation, the committee took the position that the United States should lay down its program only to the date of the conference.

Construction of an additional aircraft carrier will call for an increase in airplanes for the navy to be used on this vessel. That feature will be worked out by the committee later, it was indicated.

Wilbur had called for five aircraft carriers to be authorized. In setting a definite time limit for building the 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier the committee bowed over the recommendation of President Coolidge that the program be merely "authorized," leaving to later sessions of congress the decision when to build them.

His view was that the program be authorized by congress and that from time to time the president would ask appropriations to carry it out, taking into consideration the condition of the National Finances.

Automobile accidents in which four persons were injured, occurred within the city limits during the holiday. Most serious of the accidents reported, resulted from a collision of cars at the corner of Forty-fifth street and Cutting boulevard by A. J. Rose, 3040 Grove street, Oakland, and James F. McGrath of the Central hotel, Richmond. Rose sustained cuts about the legs and knee and his wife with him suffered a broken knee cap. SPORTS

BALL PRACTICE STARTS TODAY AT UNION HIGH

Actual baseball practice of the Richmond Union High School team will start this afternoon in preparation for the first game of the season to be played in San Francisco, March 3, with the Cogswell Polytechnic High School. Major Ivan Hill will take charge of the players and will put them through their stunts in an effort to develop a first class team. Practice has been going on for several days, and with the turnout of some of last year's regulars things are beginning to look like the real season has started.

The biggest problem that Major Hill faces at the present time is the absence of a pitching staff. So far, several boys have shown up for the job but a large staff will be required to go through the season.

Jack Doyle, Doyle Taylor, Accamazzo and Baskett are the boys out unlimbering the arm for the coming games of the year. Several good catchers are on the job in the person of Kenny Swenson, Frank Baskett, and E. Rosano. The boys who look good at first are Baldwin and Viano. Carl Pinto is ready to hold down the second birth. Joe Williams looks like the next man on the bags, while Walter Gordon looks good in the short stop position.

The outfield is still uncertain, but there are a bunch of boys who can handle the long hits and return them to the bags with the necessary speed. The workouts that the boys will go through under the direction of Major Hill will bring out the prospective players of the year, and they will be ready to go when they travel to San Francisco to take on their rivals.

Cal. To Change Uniform Styles For Trackmen

BERKELEY, Feb. 23. — The University of California track and field team may change the styles in track garments on the Pacific Coast when they appear in their first meet arrayed in a new type of uniform selected for them by their veteran coach, Walter Christie.

The Bears have discarded the "stripe" jersey and will wear monogrammed jerseys of blue Italian silk. Trunks of saffron will be of a Golden Poppy color. Christie says that the new type of uniform is much lighter than the old. The monogram was substituted for the stripe because the latter had a tendency to tighten over the shoulder of the runner and make him lose his stride.

How The 'Cat Clawed Baker

Bottom—Baker on his knees in the second round while referee shows Hudkins to neutral corner and, below, Baker, coming up at "eight." Next, a groggy spell, with the Ace on the receiver's end, Baker again down in the sixth from a low blow, and pulling leather to stay in the ring. In Joe, of announcing fame, is seen (last picture) designating Hudkins the winner.

CAL-CARD CAGE SERIES OPENS IN S. F. TONITE

BERKELEY, Feb. 23.—California and Stanford will meet in the first two games of their annual three game basketball series Friday and Saturday in the Kezar Stadium court, San Francisco.

The third game, according to the plans, will be played on the Kezar court to be decided upon later.

Originally the plan was for the series to begin on February 18 with a game at Stanford. A second game was to be played February 24 in the Oakland Auditorium, with the third scheduled for Kezar Stadium on February 25.

Because of the quarantine of the Stanford campus it was impossible to consider beginning the series as early as February 18. The Oakland Auditorium was not available for the second game, and if it were to be played in Berkeley only Harmon Gymnasium, holding less than 3000 persons would have been available.

The coaches of the two institutions made the play on the neutral Kezar court possible by sacrificing the opportunity of playing on their own courts. This is the first time in many years that a Stanford-California contest will be played in San Francisco.

The third game of last season's series was scheduled for Kezar, but inasmuch as California was leading in the southern division conference race by a wide margin and had won the first two games with Stanford, this game was cancelled.

MANDELL WINS CHICAGO BOUT

COLISEUM, Chicago, Feb. 28.—Any lingering doubt that may have existed in the minds of Chicago boxing fans in regard to Sammy Mandell's right to style himself the light-weight champion of the world was dispelled tonight by that dark, deliberate young man in the coliseum where he shelled his way to a victory over Jackie Fields, California junior welter-weight.

Mandell won nine rounds and only one, the second, could be credited to Fields. There were no knockdowns and at no time during the bout was either warrior in great distress.

Trackmeet Today At Union High

Track aspirants of the Richmond High School will have a chance to show their talent this afternoon on the improvised track when a novice track meet is run off under the direction of the Block R society of the school. Major Hill is devoting his time to developing a baseball team and has allowed the athletic society to handle the track situation for the time being.

SECOND SPAN OVER STRAITS SEEN IN MOVE

Borghi and L. G. Wilson, all of Reno, Nevada.

Charles E. Fowler of New York is designer and engineer of the bridge, which would have a center span 1840 feet long, 45 feet wide and 150 above the water at high tide.

In the past few weeks there have been a number of new developments in connection with bridge building, and it may be possible that bridges can be built without getting a franchise from boards of supervisors.

LOWER QUESTIONED
From a reliable source the RECORD-HERALD has learned that Attorney General U. S. Webb holds that the jurisdiction of supervisors does not extend to granting franchises for bridges across the navigable waters of a bay.

He is inclined to the opinion that the act of 1881 does not extend power to supervisors to grant bridge franchises, except across navigable streams that enter into a bay.

If this contention of the attorney general is correct, those who desire to build bridges would only have to secure the permission of the war department, and purchase their landing places on both sides of the water.

It is likely that in the case of the Northern California Development Company against the board of supervisors of this county, wherein the granting of a bridge franchise is involved that an amicus curiae will file a brief bringing into question the power of supervisors in such matter.

INVESTIGATION OF PHONE CO. ASKED IN BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—An investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the financial dealings between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company and their affiliated subsidiaries, is called for in a bill Representative Welch (R) of California, introduced in the house today.

The commission is directed to report any violations of law that it may discover in the inquiry to the Attorney-General for prosecution.

Instructions are given to the commission to ascertain whether the charges of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to its subsidiaries for services rendered by the parent company are reasonable.

A similar inquiry into the dealings of the Western Electric Company with its subsidiaries and affiliated companies also is directed.

An appropriation of $40,000 for carrying on the inquiry is authorized in the bill.

Efforts of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company to boost its rates in California were said by Representative Welch to have prompted him in calling for a thorough investigation of the "telephone trust."

"It is the belief of the attorneys for municipalities in California that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company through a system of padding charges between itself and subsidiaries for services, they are able to claim a high production cost to be passed along to consumers in the form of its rates," said Welch, adding:

"These inter-company charges, all in the family of concerns controlled by the Parent Company, are believed to be mere juggling of accounts from one pocket to another, so to speak, with the purpose of building up a heavy burden for the ultimate consumer to bear."

John J. O'Toole, City Attorney for San Francisco, is planning to come to Washington next month to see officials here in regard to the proposed trans-bay bridges for San Francisco, and it is Welch's intention to seek hearings by the House Committee in Inter-State

Communities along the Pacific Coast are joining in a fight to block the proposed rate increase by the "telephone trust," and they believe that congress has a duty to perform in ascertaining whether anti-trust laws are being violated.

While the Inter-State Commerce Commission has jurisdiction over Inter-State telephonic communication, it has given slight attention to this problem, it was pointed out. Most of the time of the commission is devoted to railroad control.
